"I Wouldn't Look Like That Again for All the World."

"By George, I never saw anything like the effects of that new treatment, Protone, for building up weight and lost nerve force. It acted more like a miracle than a medicine," said a well known gentleman, in speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. "I began to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. I tried tonics, digestives, heavy eating, diets, milk, beer, and almost everything else you could think of, but without result. I had been thin for years and began to think it was natural for me to be that way. Finally I read about the remarkable successes brought about by the use of Protone, so I decided to try it myself. Well, when I look at myself in the mirror now, I think it is somebody else. I have put on just 30 pounds during the last month and never felt stronger or more 'nervy' in my life."

Protone is a powerful inducer of nutrition, increases cell-growth, makes perfect the assimilation of food, increases the number of blood-corpuscles, and as a necessary result builds up muscles and solid, healthy flesh, and rounds out the figure.

For women who can never appear stylish in anything they wear because of their thinness, this remarkable treatment is a revelation. It is a beauty-maker, as well as a form builder and nerve strengthener.

The regular $1.00 size of Protone is for sale by all druggists, or will be mailed direct, upon receipt of price, by The Protone Co., 4836 Protone Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

It will cost you nothing to prove the remarkable effects of this treatment. The Protone Company will send to anyone who sends name and address, a free 50c package of Protone, with full instructions, to prove that it does the work. They will also send you their book on "Why You Are Thin," free of charge, giving facts which will probably astonish you. Send coupon below to-day with your name and address.

There are so few flies in Bavaria that they can in no way be regarded as a pest. This is, perhaps, due to the extreme cleanliness of Bavarian cities. Courtyards, alleys, vacant lots, all are kept clean, and the hallways and entrances to the houses are as fresh as soap and water can make them.

Nature's Way Is The Best.

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, lady-slacks and stone root, golden root and cherry bark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "Golden Medical Discovery."

This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature's own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require when recovering from a hard cold, grip, or pneumonia. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, puts it in shape to make pure, rich blood—helps the liver and kidneys to expel the poisons from the body. The skin, nervous system, debilitated condition which so many people experience at this time of the year is usually the effect of poisons in the blood; it is often indicated by pimples or boils appearing on the skin, the face becomes this—you feel "blue."

"More than a week ago I was suffering with an awful cold in my head, throat, breast, and body," writes Mrs. JAMES G. KERR, of 710 L. Street, S. E., Washington, D. C. "Some called it La Grippe, others called it influenza. I was advised by a friend to try a bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I tried a bottle and it did me so much good that I feel safe in saying it is the greatest and best medicine that I ever took. My health is much better than it was before I used your medicine. It does all you claim for it and is satisfactory."

FLOOD CONDITIONS IN UNITED KINGDOM WORSE

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Rain which has been deluging the United Kingdom, almost since the beginning of the month, ceased in most parts of the country today and the outlook generally is fairer. The plight of Norwich, however, has become worse, the rapid rise of the Wensum having compelled hundreds of inhabitants to seek refuge in the higher parts of the city where they temporarily are being accommodated in the schools.

Locomotion in the lower sections of the city is entirely by boat. Many streets are under eight feet of water. Two bridges and several cottages have been swept away.

A telephone message from Norwich late tonight says it is estimated that 7,000 people have been driven from their homes by the floods. The water has risen in some parts of the city to 13 feet. Police in boats provided with leaders are constantly patrolling the flooded district for rescue work. The authorities are doing their best to provide mattresses and food for the homeless. The streets present a weird appearance, the only lights being those of torches and candles.

Fears of a famine of drinking water are held, as the machinery and water works is flooded and useless.

Queen Mother, Alexandra and Princess Victoria, on board a royal yacht, are storm-bound in Southwold bay on the Suffolk coast. The yacht, which is attended by the cruiser Liverpool, does not dare venture across the North sea. A steam herring drifter was caught in Monday's hurricane and has not been seen since. It is feared the vessel foundered with all hands.

Denver Pioneer Wades Into Lake and Kills Himself by Shooting

DENVER, Aug. 28.—As thousands made merry at Lakeside yesterday afternoon and the amusement devices at the resort clattered to and fro, Julius Eckert, 65, a Denver pioneer, waded into the lake, drew a revolver from his pocket as the water reached his armpits, and shot himself through the head. The body of Eckert was found floating in the water some hours later. It was first noticed by a party of pleasure-seekers making the circle of the lake on the miniature railway. Eckert lived at 1390 Delaware street with his wife, who is one of Denver's oldest settlers, having come here in 1869. She is prostrated over the suicide of her husband. The couple had no children.

Eckert had been ill for some years. He had brooded recently over his financial affairs. At one time he was a large property owner in Denver.

Eckert had been too ill recently to leave his home, but yesterday morning, despite the protests of his wife, insisted that he was going to take a long walk. He tottered over weakness when he left his home.

The revolver found in the lake at the White City was new, and had evidently been purchased downtown before Eckert boarded a car to the resort.

Mrs. Eckert said her husband had been a victim of melancholia since his return from Germany a year ago. He had taken the trip to consult specialists on his ailment. When the men he consulted offered no hope for recovery, Eckert became downcast and often said he was tired of life.

WOMAN UNDERGOES MANY TRIALS TO FIND HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Marie Skivinsk and her three children, Edna, Joseph, and Anne, 5, were admitted by immigration officials today. Five years ago the woman's husband, Jason, a farmer of Beranum near Prague in Bohemia, came to America and later she heard from him in Colorado, where he said he had a fruit farm.

A year ago his letters ceased and the mother decided to follow. By selling everything she had, she secured money for the journey. She and the little ones walked the 250 miles from Beranum to Bremen, carrying their bundles of clothes. It cost less than 10 cents a day for food and they slept in the fields. It was a month's journey to Bremen.

There they engaged passage in the steerage of the steamer Neckar and today the mother told the story. It was decided that they were not likely to become public charges and they were allowed to enter.

The mother has a few cents over the train fare to Denver, near where the father was last heard from.

NEW AMERICAN CARDINAL IS TO BE NAMED BY POPE

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The pope is about to create a new American cardinal, who is to reside in Rome, according to a special dispatch received here. The American cardinal will occupy a similar position to that of the prelates representing France and Spain in Rome. It is also stated that the pope will later create a cardinal in central America, probably in Mexico.

TWO OF THREE BALLOONS

the bottom of the basket sweeping the tops. With the trees passed safely, the great silver bag rose higher and higher, and moved majestically away in almost a direct line toward Denver.

Honeywell, the cool and clever handler of Uncle Sam, with Bruce A. Gustin, a local newspaper man, acting as aide, got away a few moments later in spectacular style. The captain had quashed the lifting power of his balloon to an ounce, and not a grain of sand was dropped over when the men went up. The Uncle Sam followed in the wake of the Kansas City II, but bore off more to the north when about two miles out.

Paul McCullough, in the only rubber bag of the three, cleared the ground to a height of 50 feet, then the "X" bag started alarmingly. He jumped for a sand bag and dumped the greater part of its contents on the heads of those inside the field. Then the big yellow craft rose rapidly and followed the two others, the first of which was but a speck on the horizon.

Crowds Kept Interested. If Colorado Springs wanted another spectacular sight, yesterday's start of the balloon race afforded it. Timed to start about 4:30 in the afternoon, it was more than an hour after that before the first bag slipped its moorings and started off. But the delay was apparently unnoticed, and although the crowds arrived more than two hours before the start, they found sufficient to interest them.

In the draw for places McCullough was scheduled to start first, Watts second and Honeywell third, but the order of leaving was changed when Watts completed his preparations before the others. A "feeler," an unmanned balloon about eight feet in diameter, was sent away an hour before the regulars to give the pilots an idea of the general direction of the wind and to test the quality of gas.

Just before the start the three pilots said they had no way of predicting what success they would have on their voyage. The wind was blowing a little more than 20 miles an hour, and the sun, which was behind a cloud much of the time, was still partly obscured. Good gas, they pointed out, was a necessity to enable them to make long-distance flights, and they had no way of determining the quality of that furnished here until they went up.

But the start of the race, the rush of getting ready for the air journey, and the work of photographing Buckskin in character in the basket of the Uncle Sam, kept interest keyed up to the proper pitch.

CALIFORNIA ROBBED OF MUCH MONEY ANNUALLY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—Sixty thousand dollars a year is being stolen from the state of California by prominent shipping men around San Francisco bay, according to the findings of investigators. Daniel Ryan, attorney for the state board of harbor commissioners, announced tonight that both civil and criminal actions against the offenders are contemplated.

Blanks provided by the state to show tonnage on which to base harbor dues have been persistently filled in by clerks and agents of the shippers involved so as to show, according to Ryan, much less tonnage of merchandise than the real amount handled.

A SEA SANDSTORM

From McCall's Magazine. With its decks covered with an inch or more of sand, and the officers and crew looking as if they had returned from a desert trip, the schooner Alvena, 27 days from Columbia river, in command of Captain Abrahamson, arrived in San Diego, Cal., recently. While the vessel was coming along under a light wind 75 miles off shore, and 125 miles north of San Diego, it became enveloped in a cloud of fine sand. The sea was smooth and the wind from the southeast. The dust seemed to drop from the sky.

This condition prevailed for two days, according to the crew, and not until Point Loma was sighted did they get out of the dust. From that time until the schooner got into port the crew was busy sweeping the accumulated sand off the lumber cargo and decks, and getting the fine particles of grit out of their eyes and hair.

WOMAN ESCAPES DREADFUL OPERATION

How She Was Saved From Surgeon's Knife by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mogadore, Ohio.—"The first two years I was married I suffered so much from female troubles and bearing down pains that I could not stand on my feet long enough to do my work. The doctor said I would have to undergo an operation, but my husband wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound first. I took three bottles and it made me well and strong and I avoided a dreadful operation. I now have two fine healthy children, and I cannot say too much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."

—Mrs. LEE MANDIG, R. F. D. 10, Mogadore, Ohio.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A CAUSE FOR SATISFACTION

THE carnival committee of the Chamber of Commerce should receive the heartiest congratulations and commendation from the citizens of Colorado Springs, and the carnival guests as well, for the eminently efficient manner in which they arranged and carried out the Shan Kive program.

The automobile parade, the sun dance by the Ute Indians in the Garden of the Gods, the mask fete and mask ball on Tuesday were all carried out without a hitch.

Just as much can be said of the events of the second day of the carnival. The Pioneer and Civic parade, held yesterday morning, should be a cause for civic pride. The lodges, organizations, manufacturers, dealers and others who had floats in the parade and there were many who had them showed a great deal of ingenuity and taste, as well as civic patriotism, in the work that they did in making the carnival a success. And the Shan Kive has already been a success.

The Indians, the cowboys and the long distance balloon race have added a distinctive feature to the carnival of 1912. Today an interesting program in which Indians, pioneers and cowboys will take a prominent part will be carried out in Manitou. The festivities will end tonight with fireworks sent up from a mountain adjacent to Soda Springs park.

The Shan Kive of 1912, like the 40th anniversary celebration of 1911, will be recorded in local history as an event the success of which has justified the expenditure required to make it an accomplished fact.

A WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW FOR COLORADO

DURING the past three or four years there has come to be a full appreciation of the fact that the laws in the United States relating to the liability of employers for injuries suffered by employees are extremely unjust and unfair to workmen. It is in consequence of this full realization of the injustice of the common law rules of employers' liability based on fault that legislation is being enacted based upon what is called the principle of "workmen's compensation" as distinguished from "employers' liability."

The common law rules of liability have been handed down from the period of industry that existed before the development of steam power and the factory system. A hundred and twenty-five years ago it was unusual for an employer to have more than five or six employees; the employer worked with his employees; he was cognizant of everything that went on in the workshop. Under such circumstances it is easy to see how the common law rules of employers' liability for personal injuries to employees was based exclusively upon the idea of tort or wrong. The three doctrines of law which were developed as employers' defenses in injury suits are (1) the doctrine of assumption of risk, (2) the fellow-servant doctrine and (3) the doctrine of contributory negligence.

THE THREE HISTORIC DEFENSES.

The doctrine of assumption of risks is that the employee is deemed to have assumed the risk of employment and, therefore, that there is no liability for injuries resulting therefrom. Even though the employer fail in his duty in not taking proper safeguards, yet if the employee continue work with knowledge of such fault the employer is relieved from liability.

The fellow-servant doctrine is this: If an injury results from a wrong or a fault of a coemployee the employer is not liable unless he has not exercised due care in the selection of such coemployee.

The doctrine of contributory negligence is that if an injury results in part from the employer's fault, in the injured employee's fault contributes thereto so that the injury would not have occurred without it, the employer is relieved from all liability.

Finally, it is a rule of common law that the burden of proof as to all points is upon the injured party.

In Colorado the fellow-servant rule has been abrogated by imposing upon the employer liability for damages for any injury due to negligence or omission of duty by any coemployees. Such legislation does not go far enough. Colorado should have a workmen's compensation law based upon the principle that all industries must bear the burden of the human sacrifices that they cause in the shape of injuries and loss of life. The rules relating to employers' liability that were suitable in the handicrafts stage of industry are not suited to modern industrial conditions. This fact is recognized everywhere. The legislative sessions of 1911 brought forth compensation acts in California, Illinois, Kansas, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Washington and Wisconsin.

Philip B. Stewart and the Progressive Republicans are pledged to enact a workmen's compensation law that will entirely do away with the unjust common law rules and place the burden of injuries and deaths where that burden should be upon the industries in which the accidents occur.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

ASPHALT.

The writer lived for many years in an Ohio city, the streets of which were paved with asphalt. It was not long after the paving was completed before it was discovered that heavy winds blowing over the hard, smooth, unswamp surface sent the accumulated dirt and refuse into the faces of people worse than before paving—not the same fine, natural dust, but that spread about by the locomotion of vehicles and the excrement of horses. Even after adopting automatic sweepers and sprinklers (the former being used only after business hours) it was necessary to employ many men to keep the streets free from rubbish as possible without interfering with traffic and pedestrians. Colorado Springs will probably find it necessary to do likewise. There are a good many unemployed people who would be glad to help out with rakes, shovels and brooms, as an auxiliary to motor sweepers and sprinklers that have only limited time and reach in which to do their work.

FROM OTHER PENS

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY PEARLS.

New Discoveries Are Reminders of a Not Generally Known Industry.

From the San Francisco Chronicle. Although for many years pearls have been found in the lakes and streams of Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and, in fact, in all the states of the Mississippi valley, the announcement of every valuable find comes as at least a mild surprise to most persons accustomed as they are to associate pearls and other precious things with strange and foreign lands.

The dispatch published from Marshfield, Ia., on Sunday was another of these reminders of the existence of a pearl industry in the interior of the United States. Two pearls had been found near Iowa City and they were disposed of to dealers for $600 and $410 respectively. The value in neither case was very great, measured by the prices sometimes paid, but probably were considered by the finders as a satisfactory reward for a few days' clamming.

Until within the last 15 years or so river pearls were not valued as highly as orientals but now they are eagerly sought by jewelers. Indeed, buyers from eastern jewelry houses patrol the river banks continually and the pearl fishermen find a ready market for anything of value they may find.

To-day, in which state the two pearls sold last week were found, holds the record for having yielded the most valuable fresh-water pearls in the country. One of these, found near Lansing in 1892, was sold in Boston for $65,000. It was nearly an inch in diameter, flawless and of the regular pearl color. Another, known as the "Queen Lady," was found in the same year near the same place and was bought by a Chicago society woman for $50,000.

Other pearls of great value and thousands of small ones have been found in the middle and southern states. It is not even known how many have been lost to the world, but it is probable that all of these lustrous jewels.

KEEPS HIS OFFICE.

From the New York Tribune. Mr. Wilson's decision not to resign the governorship of New Jersey during the presidential campaign accords with general expectation and it may frankly be said with precedent and reason. Elected for political office, he has been nominated for political office and he has been in office while running for higher places. The practice may mean some slighting of the duties of the office which the candidate holds in favor of efforts to make sure his election to the one to which he aspires, but such impairment of public interests is no greater than that which might be involved in a change of functionaries. In the present case Governor Wilson has long been so persistent an absentee that the state has become accustomed to his habit. Of course, when he has been absent from the state his place has been filled by a highly competent acting governor, and that will not be the case when he is present in the state but ignoring state work for that of his presidential campaign, and it would probably be too much to expect him to spend his time at headquarters outside of the state so that an acting governor might be in charge in New Jersey.

The most interesting feature of the situation which is thus presented is that which has to do with the mere governorship of the state in the contingency of Dr. Wilson's election as president. If he is not elected he will of course remain in office for the next year of his term. But if he should be elected he would have to retire from the governorship at least as early as March 2, and he would then be succeeded by the president of the state senate in acting governor until a new governor having been elected in November 1913 was installed in the following January. That circumstance will interest with peculiar interest the contest for state senators in various New Jersey counties for upon the result will depend the political complexion of the state next year and therefore the politics and personality of the acting governor.

There is no present prospect of a Republican victory in the state next year. The Republican party is in a very weak position in the state and it is probable that the Democratic party will be victorious.

Republican counties of Burlington and Cape May, where Republicans will surely be elected, and two of the equally strong Democratic counties of Gloucester and Sussex. The remaining two contests will be in Middlesex and Passaic, which are now represented, respectively, by a Democrat and a Republican, but which are both so uncertain politically as to be fairly debatable ground in a campaign. The entire governorship of the state will therefore practically depend upon the result of the senatorial election in Passaic county. If the Republicans carry it they will retain control of the senate and elect a Republican president of that body, while if the Democrats win it they will control the senate. But the result of the presidential election may make all such considerations negligible except as they concern the filling of the governorship during Dr. Wilson's absence. And perhaps he will not care to be absent so much when he has not a presidential boom to cultivate.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE NEWS.

From the Chicago Tribune. At the national newspaper conference at Madison, speaking upon the subject of the impartiality of news reporting, a former editor of the Daily Socialist declared that society would never get impartial service from news agencies until classes have disappeared, and in the meantime the Socialist press comes nearer furnishing impartial and truthful news reports than any other press.

Both assertions are amusing. Class is an obsession with the Socialist doctrine, but the idea that the emotions and prejudices which class unquestionably creates are the only serious defects in the glass we now see through darkly is as naive a piece of bigotry as one often encounters.

Less incontinent though perhaps naturally prejudiced is the assertion that the Socialist press now more nearly approximates fact report than the "capitalist" press. If there is inflated partiality anywhere in American journalism it is in the Socialist press. The yellow journal at its pallovest never surpassed the wild yarns that frequently appear with all the positiveness of verified fact, and the general spirit of bitter partisanship that the Socialist press shows in comment is itself evidence enough to any fairly open mind that its observation of facts cannot be clear, to say nothing of its report fair.

No honest newspaper man will deny that inaccuracy, inadequacy, and bias are all to be found in the press. He will admit that the personal interests, the class prejudices, the selfish hopes, fears, ambitions of owners, of editors, of reporters, of all the human beings who make up that wonderful complex, the modern newspaper, result in partiality of report. It never will be, it never can be otherwise while men are human.

No man is able to report the truth, no matter how deeply he may desire to do so. Any psychologist will prove that this physical and psychological fact, the critics of newspapers, who are all their readers, are apt to forget. Carelessness is human as well as selfish bias, and even more plentiful, and what is usually suspected of being a sinister intention is usually the result of the inevitable defects of man's power to observe and to state.

The American newspaper is more impartial, less partisan, more fair, and more efficient than ever. The tendency toward making it an institution instead of a personality is one which makes for steadiness, continuity, and responsibility. The tendency to make it a business proposition, while it has its discount, is not, as is superficially supposed, a tendency to make it venal. And the reason for that is simple and familiar. Honesty is the best policy. The newspaper that is unfaithful to the public interests, the interests of its readers as a whole, shrivels. A survey of American journalism today proves that. The newspaper is a private institution so far as its ownership is concerned, and only so far. In all other respects it is a public institution, and therefore its private profit can never be contrary to its public duty. Papers endowed against the public interest lose their value for those who invest in them, because the public disesteems them. There is only one way to make a successful and therefore an influential paper, and that is to make it do its duty.

Tact

By RUTH CAMERON.

Popularity Papers—Being the Fourth of a Few Little Talks on the Ingredients of Popularity.

One of the most important characteristics for the person who wants to be popular to possess is tact, which has been most cleverly defined as the fine art of picking things up by the handles.

The tactless person is never popular.

No matter how good his intentions, if any one goes about snatching things up without heed to their handles and stepping on folks' mental corns, people will not be glad to see him coming.

Besides, I do not think that tactlessness ever does coexist with really good intentions, or at any rate with any grave effort to put these intentions into action. You sometimes hear people say, "Oh, dear, I'm so unlucky. I always say the wrong thing. I wish I were tactful, and I try to be, but somehow I seem to put my foot in it. I'm just unlucky."

What a very queer idea of luck some people have.

"There, I forgot and spoke about Grace's marrying that divorced man," says one of these unlucky (?) people, "and I meant to be careful not to say anything like that because Mrs. R. is so sensitive about her daughter's getting divorced."

If this woman had really felt her neighbor's trouble if she had been truly sympathetic, if she had been thinking first of her friend and then of herself, would she have made such a "break"? Indeed, tactlessness is just thoughtlessness, and thoughtlessness is just selfishness. In the last analysis, tact goes back to the first ingredient in the porridge of popularity—unselfishness.

Tact manifests itself in a thousand different ways. It shows itself in making its possessor sensitive to other people's moods, in telling him when to be silent and when to speak, in teaching him what topics to avoid and what topics will be particularly welcome. It makes him self-restrained, and it is innumerable other ways. And under all these manifestations there is one moving spirit—the spirit of selflessness.

People who do not think they cannot acquire it, but who are willing to make the sacrifice and practice it, will find it. And in the end, they will find that it is the shortest text book—the Golden Rule.

NO. 5 BABISTS

The followers of Babism today number more than 1,000,000 people, and it is still spreading and offers in its history some striking parallels to the origin and early development of Christianity. This system of a mystic Mohammedan sect originated in Persia about the middle of the nineteenth century. The roots of the sect lie in the early doctrine known as Shiah, which has flourished most prolifically and almost solely on Persian soil.

The immediate precursors of the Babis were the Shaikhis, followers of Shakhk Ahmed (1753-1826) a Shiite mystic, ascetic and thinker. His special teaching was that the Imams were personifications of divine attributes and that of these personifications Ali was chief. He gathered around him a great company of believers, the leadership of whom passed after his death to Hajji Sayid Kazim. When the latter died in 1843 he appointed no successor.

Among his disciples had been a certain Mirza Ali Mohammed, a native of Shiraz, 23 years of age at the death of Sayyid. Mirza Ali was met by Mullah Huain, one of the searchers for a successor to the dead leader, and claimed to be the sought one, the "true one who was to appear" and the Bab or "Gate." He also claimed inspiration, established his right to the place of leader by revealing undiscovered meanings in the Koran, and convinced the searchers that their quest was ended.

Adherents came in by the hundred when the news that the Bab had appeared was spread abroad, as it soon was, in the manner peculiar to the east. To the personal attractiveness of his young leader and the agreement of his pantheistic teachings with the mysticism held by most Shihites there was added a compelling force driving to association with his followers the great evil of a tyrannous, civil and religious administration, so that the Babis soon became a large and important body.

In 1843 the Bab made the pilgrimage to Mecca, returning confirmed in his opposition to the mullahs or clergy. He attacked them in his preachings and when they sent their ablest debaters to confute him and his claims, these partisans were either silenced or convinced. They then secured his arrest and attempted to assassinate him, but were prevented since he was under the protection of the governor. Finally when the governor died in 1847 and a new governor took his place, Bab was cast into prison and the prime minister ordered his execution which took place on July 8, 1850.

Mirza Ali, the martyred Bab, had nominated Mirza Yahya his successor and head of the 19 councilors and continuity was secured. The execution of the Bab exasperated his followers and some of them attempted to assassinate the Shah.

The Babist doctrines are essentially a system of Pantheism, with additions from gnostic and other sources. All individual existence is regarded as emanating from the Supreme Deity, by whom it will be ultimately absorbed. Great importance is attached to the number 7, as indicating the attributes supposed to be displayed in the act of creation, and to the number 12, which mystically expresses the name of the Deity himself, and is, moreover, the sum of the prophets among whom the latest incarnation of the divine nature is conceived to be distributed. In the present dispensation, and of whom the Bab himself is the chief, Moses, Christ and Mohammed are considered to be prophets, but merely precursors of the Bab and inferior to him. The morals of the sect are good. The faith of the Bab has found a few adherents in America, like other Oriental religions, which have sent their apostles to this country.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

II—THE ATTITUDE OF THE UNITED STATES

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

In its handling of the difficulties growing out of the revolution in Mexico the American state department has been criticized by almost every one affected. The people who have gone to Mexico from the United States complain that the attitude of the government at Washington is not positive enough to protect them in their rights under international law. The people who reside on the American side of the Mexican border contend that they have a right to demand protection from the flying missiles of battle from the Mexican side, and to insist that the United States shall compel the warring faction in Mexico to fight their battles on grounds and to aim their guns in directions that will not kill and maim people and damage property on the American side. They assert that a zone of neutrality ought to be established and maintained by an American army patrolling the frontier.

These people also criticize the state department for its attitude toward those who have been the victims of shells and balls crossing the international boundary line. They assert that they are entitled to protection from the gunfire of the Mexicans, and that if they are damaged it is the duty of the state department to right their wrongs for them and to do it promptly and efficiently. And this, they assert, has not been done. It is their contention that our government has failed to do its duty when it has not protected them from such injury, and that there is neither reason or justice in the attitude of the state department in refusing to press their claims.

Work for Best Interests of All.

Meanwhile the state department answers that it has been trying to follow those lines that would best promote the interests of all concerned. It points out that the Mexican government has created a channel through which these claims may be brought up, adjudicated, and settled. This is in the shape of consular investigations. For instance, the Mexican consul at El Paso is empowered to investigate the claims growing out of the damage inflicted in El Paso by the guns of the contending forces. His recommendations will be taken as a guide for payment by the Mexican government.

The department contends that it was not for it to refuse to recognize the methods of satisfaction provided by the Mexican government, but simply to see that justice is done. So long as the method chosen by the Mexicans works, it contended, there was no reason for other methods to be invoked, such other methods as might have been necessary had the plan adopted by the Mexicans failed to afford adequate relief.

This contention has been answered by the senators from the states bordering on the frontier with the statement that it is scarcely to be expected that the Mexican consul having in mind the bad financial situation of their country, and objecting to its assuming responsibility for damages inflicted on rebel troops, will be overliberal with the American citizens living on this side of the Rio Grande. Senator Fall, for instance, contended that it is the duty of those Americans who live in Mexico and have sustained injuries there to exhaust their remedies in that country before appealing to Washington. But it is contended that the people injured on the American side have an entirely different status. So long as they have stayed at home and there have followed the pursuits of good citizens it is for the government at Washington to protect them and not for them to protect themselves. Hence their contention that the state department has erred.

Army Officers Will Decide.

Congress finally has accepted their view of it and has provided that the assessment of damages shall be made by American army officers, and that the Washington government will undertake to see that restitution is made. It is to be explained that the state department feels that the Mexican situation is a dangerous one, and that it needs to be handled with the utmost care if we are to avert complications that might prove of the utmost seriousness. It occupies much the same position that President McKinley occupied before the Spanish-American war, seeking to avert any incident that might inflame public opinion at home or stir up trouble in Mexico.

Meanwhile incidents have happened from time to time that might, under other conditions, provoke international trouble. The government at Washington permitted Americans in Mexico to import arms for self-defense. These were taken from them by the revolutionists with the declaration that since the United States has refused to allow them to import munitions of war from across the Rio Grande that is their only chance to get them. They assert that the Madero revolutionists are permitted to get all the arms and ammunition they needed, but that the Orozco people are denied the right that was granted the former revolutionists. Likewise Americans have been treated so brutally in some cases that there is probably ground for the assertion that such treatment has been meted out for the purpose of forcing intervention. In one instance a prominent American colonist's wife fell ill and died. Her relatives in New Mexico were notified and made the trip in an automobile. At the international boundary line they were told by the Mexican consul that they did not need a passport. When they arrived at their destination the man whose wife had died was torn from the death chamber and taken out and hanged by Mexican soldiers for permitting these relatives to come to his house without a passport.

Mormons Hardest Hit.

Perhaps the people hardest hit by the revolution have been the Mormons. President Diaz was always anxious to get as many farmers into Mexico as possible—farmers who would break up big haciendas into small farms and till them after the American way. Dozens of Mormon settlements were established in many sections of Mexico. Traveling along the Vera Cruz and Isthmus railroads one crosses broad prairies with here and there settlements of Mormon farmers—men who have transformed idle soil into wealth-producing plantations. The same has been true in northern Mexico. These people went down there taking their all with them and establishing farming

"Uncle Joe" Accepts Aged Man's Challenge to a Kicking Contest

MOOREHEAD, Minn., Aug. 28.—
"Uncle Joe" Cannon, in a letter to State Senator Charles H. Marden, accepts the challenge of J. B. Blanchard, aged 90 of this city to a "high kicking" contest. Mr. Cannon in accepting the challenge, says:
"I cannot suggest that Mr. Blanchard first get a reputation before attempting to challenge me in this regard, for, of course, his prowess in this delightful sport is known to all men. In view of the tone of defiance indicated by his statement, I can not do otherwise than accept."
Mr. Cannon then presents his best wishes to Mr. Blanchard, who on his ninetieth birthday, declared he could

CHINA JIM BACK FROM NATIVE LAND

China Jim (James Bufunda) arrived

styles and new modes of life generally.
The new government has not been able to accomplish much so far, although there has been improvement. A great many people in China are satisfied with what has been done already. One great trouble lies in the fact that there are too many parties and that power is lodged in too many hands so that the situation is complicated. Matters, however, are getting better right along, and if the new government can raise money it will accomplish results. China Jim says the people of China are doing everything in their power to get funds to help the new regime along. He especially praises Yuan Shi Kai, the Chinese president, and his power for good.

"The styles are all changed," said Jim last night. "The queues are cut off and most of the people now dress in the American way. You find both men and women generally wearing American style shoes. A great many schools have been opened since the new government came in—schools for ladies, schools for children, schools for everybody. The buildings, too, are being put up in American style."
"Canton is taking down its old wall," he said, "that great, big, old wall.
They are going to put in street cars
there, too."

district and rural towns which remind one of prosperous sections in Iowa and Illinois. None of the things one sees in those states were wanting to tell the story of thrift, energy and prosperity.
In some of the towns were three-story school buildings, built according to the best standard in the United States.
Their schools had as extensive courses of study and as good teachers as those in this country.

But where prosperity and happiness dwelt yesterday, today there is sorrow and calamity. What the armies of the north and south did to Virginia as the fortunes of war swayed back and forth during the 60's that have the armies of the government and of the revolutionarists been doing to the Mormon settlements in northern Mexico. That is why they have abandoned their all and are flocking back to the United States, mayhap never to return.

The Americans in Mexico cannot complain that they have not been dealt with generously in the matter of being afforded an opportunity to get out of the country. The dispatching of army transports to bring them off when President Taft issued his admonition to all Americans to get out, the prompt acting by congress of $100,000 and the use of army tents for the protection of the refugees coming across the border, and the paying of transportation charges to any part of the United States for every returning refugee unable to pay it himself, tell the story of the disposition of the government to do what it can.

Congressional Committee at Work.

While all of these things have been happening congress has decided, upon the motion of Senator Nelson, to attempt to find out exactly what is the true inwardness of the situation in Mexico. Everybody knows that it costs money to wage wars, and congress has a committee at work trying to find out where the finances of the armies in Mexico and the revolutions in other countries are coming from. Some have asserted that Wall street is financing the revolution. Others are contending that this is improbable at least. They point out that Wall street has vast investments in the railroads and mines of Mexico, and that it would scarcely put up money tending to perpetuate the present situation, which manifestly is adverse to the prosperity of these interests.

It is known, however, by all who are acquainted with these countries, that all one needs to do is to raise the standard of revolution and financial support is forthcoming. It happens in the little war-ridden countries like Haiti, Santo Domingo, Nicaragua and Honduras, as well as in Mexico. And more often than not it is American money that is put up. The investigating committee is determined to sift this phase of the situation to the bottom, and it is probable that it will result in some very interesting revelations.
Those who ought to be best acquainted with the situation in Mexico profess to be a little hope of peace.
They assert that the problem has a solid solution, and is not to keep up the fighting indefinitely, so long as it

Tourists do not frequently plan to carry home furniture as sou-

Sidelights on the Shan Kive

It was almost as interesting from the side as the game of ballooning, but the three big gas bags, then about three-quarters filled, loomed up like giant mushrooms as they swayed softly in the moonlight. At 3 o'clock in the morning, the field was a ghostly looking place. The gates were closed, and inside there was a big guard with a big guards who were on duty all night filling the balloons and keeping guard over them. McCullough learned late Tuesday afternoon that the Aero Club of America would not consider his balloon if it bore the name of a firm or individual. With the Goodyear company's name painted on the rubber bag McCullough saw trouble ahead, but like all balloonists, he is accustomed to overcome obstacles. He took a big cloth strip marked with the letter X, and fastened it over the rubber concern's name. This let him fore the monster balloons themselves started. The tiny craft would mount high in the air and shoot away to the north, getting farther up all the time, till they were finally lost to sight. The crowd cheered each of them as it started.

Men, if you attend the Shan Kive in Manitou tonight, leave your hats at home. These girls around here have an awfully bad habit of pulling the feathers off of feather dusters and using the end of the stick to knock a straw hat high into the air. If it falls in the crowd it is useless to hunt for it, because, in to one, you couldn't find more than a square inch or so.

The eastern boundary of Washburn field yesterday afternoon reminded one of the eastern boundary of Roswell park last summer during the aviation meet. If the executive committee could only have selected from all who saw the big balloons start on their race, they would be almost millionaires.

One of the poor, overworked corner-lots in the Midland band almost blew his head off yesterday. Attempted suicide. No, but those musicians insisted on running down to see the big balloons. Incomprehensible and the band leader spent most of his time sounding the high call.

"Not pictures, balloons," said one enthusiastic looker to a small group of Utes at Washburn field yesterday afternoon. In a weak attempt to talk Indian English and the sign language at the same time.

"Ugh," quivered one of the brutes. "That picture—balloon," repeated the looker, at the same time pointing first at the Indians, then to the Uncle Sam's basket, and finally to the kodak, trying to make the red men understand that he wanted their picture in the basket of the big aircraft.

The four Indians looked doubtfully around for a moment, stalked over to the basket, walked around it several times to make sure it was not tied to the big base, then, with smiles breaking over their faces, cheerfully climbed over the side into the basket and posed for the snap shooters.

The following telephone conversation is typical of any number that were held with this office last night:

"Hello, Gazette? Say, I understand that one of the balloons is down. How about it?"

"They are all down."

"What? Well, I'll

"And the receiver clicked in the hook."

"Hurrah, Whoopee—e—e—e."

This yell suddenly burst from the throats of several hundred people standing on the east side of Washburn field just before the start of the balloon race yesterday afternoon, upon a comparatively quiet audience.

The crowd, thinking that one of the big air craft was casting off its sand bags to ascend, suddenly turned all attention to the field, and everybody craned his neck and strained his eyes in order to better see the ascent when—horror—just above the Uncle Sam appeared a small toy balloon with a valise-chate attached, slowly soaring skyward.

"Hurry up and catch up with that automobile ahead of you," yelled a man, shouting to the crowd and flower parade to the driver of a float, drawn by a couple of burros, which was at least a half block behind in the procession.

"Now, mister," drawled the fellow, "do you think these here things are as high-powered as that critter up there?"

"Get out of the way there, you kids," yelled R. L. Holland, to a group of mechanics who were rapidly gathering in front of the motion picture machine at the start of the balloon races yesterday afternoon. "We don't want this film to look like a dark and stormy night."

Shan Kive evidently means a contrast of the old and the new. In the garden of the Gods Tuesday afternoon, the Utes, one of the oldest of Indian tribes, danced their famous Sun Dance before society folk of today who watched the performance from their high-powered automobiles. At the cow-punchers' dance last night the turkey and bunny hug followed close on the heels of the old-fashioned square dance and Virginia reel.

Aprons of the gas balloon as a means of continental travel. It might not be out of place to call attention to that old saying, "the best-laid plans of mice and men—etc." Gloomy Gus, the aide to Captain Honeywell and Uncle Sam, expressed the fond hope the other day over his own cognomen that he hoped the balloon in which he set forth on a mysterious journey yesterday afternoon would land him somewhere near his old Kentucky home in Missouri. The place is quite a large affair, and the aide may have had visions of dropping in for lunch about the second day out. His vacation was due, and Uncle Sam looked like a willing carrier to ease him across the plains without the toll and tumult of traveling in a Pullman from here to Missouri. And, besides, he didn't wish to help swell the bank account of a grasping railroad corporation by paying fare. Uncle Sam looked like General Opportunity knocking at his door. And they called away yesterday "old the plaudits of the mob—Captain Honeywell and G. following the line of the Rio Grande to Palmer Lake. But the trade winds didn't blow Missouriward. Uncle Sam fought the contrary currents till he lost his breath, and the aeronauts were forced to land less than 30 miles away at a place known on the map as Perry Park. They are due here this morning in time for a late breakfast. Welcome home.

Ruckskin Charley is probably the most photographed individual in the Pike's Peak region. Hundreds have snapped him at the Indian camp in Monument Valley park, more hundreds at the Sun dance in the Garden of the Gods Tuesday, and still others when he and his band attended the balloon races at Washburn field yesterday. And the Uncle Sam did not fall away until Charley had been persuaded to climb in the basket and to pose for a photograph for both professionals and amateurs. Last year he was photographed in an aeroplane here with Phil Parmelee, who was killed several months ago on the coast.

Joe W. Garrett, the local trigger expert, who gave some clever snooking stunts in the civic parade yesterday, shot at several unexpected targets during the progress of the procession on Kiowa street. In the block past the reviewing stands, about a dozen toy balloons broke loose, and Garrett turned his gun at them. A tiny bit of gum, all that remained after the balloons had been bit floated down after each shot.

NEW FRANCO-RUSSIAN PACT HITS GERMANS

Disappointed That Convention Should Come So Soon After Kaiser's Russian Visit

By FREDERICK WERNER.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The conclusion of the new Franco-Russian convention still excites the public mind and although it is not considered a menace to Germany, it has nevertheless caused widespread disappointment that the convention should come so very shortly after the meeting between the kaiser and the czar. It seems to throw some shadow across the former's diplomatic ability and usefulness to the country, especially as several French papers weeks ago announced that while the kaiser had full power to act for his people, the czar could give no binding promises, until after M. Poincaré's visit to St. Petersburg. The prophecy has now come true and great is the disappointment of the people of Germany, who remembered how the Potsdam agreement resulted from the last meeting between the czar and kaiser. The significance of the new convention is considered to lie more in the emphasis of the close relations between Russia and France, and in the strengthening of their alliance rather than in any actual extension of their arrangements for cooperation in case of war. If France and Russia, under the terms of the previously existing alliance, were engaged in war against other powers, their navies would necessarily set together with or without specific agreement on this particular point. The new convention is thus regarded as political rather than strategic in character.

The advocates of naval expansion will exploit the conclusion of the convention to add their vigorous propaganda for a bigger German fleet. They make her a formidable opponent at sea. The bill provides for an expenditure of $250,000,000, of which nearly $200,000,000 is to be spent on the new battleships for the Baltic and Black seas. The present provision is for four armored cruisers, eight smaller cruisers, and 36 destroyers for the Baltic, whilst the Russian naval ports are to be thoroughly overhauled and re-equipped, and the existing admiralty dock yards enlarged and improved.

In addition to the $50,000,000 just voted by the duma, Russia during the next five years will expend $391,500,000 on ships already building, and the terms in which the bill was introduced by the minister of marine show that naval expenditure for the future will be on an expanding scale. With such an addition as Russia will be able to bring to British and French naval forces in northern seas a combination will be effected that should give pause to any aggressive designs on the part of the mid-European powers.

Formidable Opponent at Sea.

Ever since the practical destruction of the Russian fleet at Tsushima, the necessity of naval preparedness has been kept in mind by Russian statesmen, and with the passing of the Russian navy bill by the duma last month, Russia has been definitely committed to a naval program which will make her a formidable opponent at sea.

The bill provides for an expenditure of $250,000,000, of which nearly $200,000,000 is to be spent on the new battleships for the Baltic and Black seas. Miniature Menagerie Discovered in Room of Returned Explorer

By GEORGE DUFRESNE.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—For some time the commissary of police in the quarter of the Bourse had been receiving complaints from the tenants of a house in the Rue Richelieu that the occupants of the fifth floor kept them awake by imitating the sounds of different animals. The proper place for the exercise of such talents, they held, was the stage, and not a reputable dwelling where everyone went bedtimes to bed. The law moved at last, and the inquiries of the commissary discovered not a ventriloquist with distorted ideas of humor, but a veritable menagerie. In fact, the tenant of the fifth floor was an explorer, but lately returned from the Congo, who, no doubt, to assuage his nostalgia for the life of the wilds, had installed in his rooms several lion cubs and a number of apes, parrots, badgers and snakes. He has been requested to transfer his miniature menagerie elsewhere.

CORRAL ON SOUTH NEVADA AVENUE

COWBOY GAMES, HORSE QUADRILLE AND GRAND BALL BY OLD TIMERS

With the old time cowboys and the "newtime" cowgirls riding outlaw horses, playing their various games and the men yelling wildly, the scene presented on the Colorado college campus yesterday afternoon was quite a contrast to what it will be within a few weeks when the sober, dignified seniors and the light-hearted, carefree freshmen slowly stroll up and down the broad walks from one class to another.

It is seldom that such a large band of cowboys is gathered together, and it is still more seldom that enough of the riders are experts to make any of the games interesting. However, the bunch that performed for the benefit of the tenderfoot yesterday certainly knew what they were doing.

At 2 o'clock the band arrived, galloping like mad up Tejon street, through the campus to the place where the games were to be pulled off. The crowd had no more than arrived than the boys dragged out an outlaw horse or two, and then the excitement began. Flocking, rolling, kicking and snorting—the horses did all of that and then some. However, the animals were not the equal of their enemies, and all had to lie down and be quiet in the long run. The winner of the riding contest, was Clara Long of this city. Alva Lutwell of New Mexico was second.

The Ribbon Race.

After several outlaws had been subdued, the boys held a ribbon race. In this contest a ribbon is pinned on the shirt of one of the riders. He is given a short start, and then the rest of the bunch attempts to take the ribbon away from him. To see 15 or 20 horsemen after one man, who goes like the wind in one direction, and then suddenly turns in his tracks and goes in the opposite direction, is excitement enough for any crowd, especially when the arena is not roped off and the racing horsemen are grazing the crowd at every turn. This contest was won by Ed Pring of Pring, Colo.

The last number on the little program the boys were giving "just to show people what is coming off at Manitou tomorrow, as one of them expressed it, was the potato race. Here a box of spuds are placed at one end of the arena, and an empty box at the other. Each rider is given a long, sharp pointed stick, and the object of the game is to see who can spear and carry safely to the empty box the greatest number of the potatoes. Bob Attleberg of Cotopaxi, Colo., brother-in-law of Police Chief Burns, was the winner in this contest.

See Balloon Race.

After the show the punchers watched the start of the balloon race and then went to their camp on South Nevada avenue to prepare for the big dance at Temple theater last night. And that was some dance, too.

Following an exhibition shoot on Kiowa street by Jno. W. Garrett of this city, was the horseback quadrille, staged by Art Robinson and a number of the best riders in attendance at the Shan Kive. The numbers were called by Andy Adams, one of the typical old timers here. After this entertainment the cowboys and girls went to the theater for the evening's fun.

The program started with several of the old-time square dances, the music for which was furnished by about a dozen "fiddlers." After the first few dances, Barnes' orchestra relieved the old timers, and round dances were in order the rest of the evening.

On to Their Job.

And speaking of fiddling, those old timers certainly know how to do it. Settling down into their chairs in the most comfortable position, head resting on the back of the chair and feet extended far to the front, they closed their eyes, dropped half asleep and fiddled away just as long as the dancers had any breath left.

Floor committeemen for the ball were: Tom Brigham, Andy Adams, Art Robinson, Bill Holmes, Bill Barreis, Bill Berryman, Al Koutch, Bill Parks and Mike Gillman.

The cowpunchers will meet at their camp this morning at 9 o'clock to perfect a permanent organization. This afternoon they will give a real wild west show in Manitou, on the level mesa near the starting point of the Crystal Park auto road.

DENVERITES IN AUTO SEE BALLOONS EN ROUTE HERE

"There they come," breathlessly exclaimed John F. Vallery, general agent of the Burlington in Denver, at 6:40 o'clock last evening, as he gazed transfixed into the sky at a point two miles south of Palmer Lake. "Stop the car," he managed to say.

Vallery and his companions, who were three other directors of the Denver Festival of Mountain and Plain, and two newspaper men, were motoring to Colorado Springs, bound for the closing hours of the Shan Kive.

Examination showed the two leaders in the balloon race. Making excellent time under a good breeze, they approached rapidly and soon passed directly over the heads of the party, at an estimated height of 1,000 feet. The John J. White balloon, Kansas City, Mo., seemed about two miles ahead of the Uncle Sam, bearing Capt. H. E. Honeywell, which was making even better time, and sailing half a mile nearer the mountains. The Walter balloon veered to the eastward of Palmer Lake, while that of Honeywell, passed directly over the lake.

Just as the leaders were disappearing, the "X," carrying Paul J. McCullough, hove in sight, flying very low, probably 200 feet above the ground, and in the exact track of Honeywell. The driver could be seen unloading ballast, but he sank lower and lower, and struck the trees in a glen about one mile south of Palmer Lake. Gradually the huge bulk of the bag loosened, and the spectators concluded that McCullough had opened the valve and let out enough gas to descend.

The Denver men arrived here at 1:30 o'clock last night.

company each made a fine showing. Others having good floats were the Zoo, J. O. U. A. M. Out West Tent & Awning company, Modern Woodmen, W. O. W. Elks, Yeomen and Y. M. C. A.

In the unique floats, the one entered by John A. Himebaugh took the first prize. It was the largest in the parade, and represented a plains scene. On one end of the platform was a tent, in front of which were several pioneers dressed in homespun, long boots, long hair, looking like typical frontiersmen. At the other end was Himebaugh, dressed in a similar manner, deftly flipping fried eggs in a frying pan.

The Colorado Springs horse-drawn fire fighting machines made a good showing, and the department is to be complimented on the interest it has taken in the carnival. In the automobile parade Tuesday morning several of the big auto fire trucks were in line, gaily decorated, while in the civic and pioneer parade yesterday morning the horse vehicles appeared as clean and bright as water and polish could make them.

To Frank A. Perkins, chairman of the civic and pioneer parade committee, is due great credit for the brilliant success of the pageant.

GENERAL OUTBREAK IN CENTRAL AMERICA FEAR OF STATE DEPARTMENT

Refugees of Late Zelayan Regime Flocking Into Nicaragua
From Honduras President Taft Rescinds Order for Troop Movement From Panama Nicaraguans in Interior Badly Treated and Americans Suffer.
Send Appeal to State Department

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Grave concern over the situation in Nicaragua was expressed at the state department today.

A single direct dispatch from Nicaragua told of a serious situation in Matagalpa. The dispatch was sent by 125 Americans, and told of the killing of a German named Nelson, and appealed to the state department for immediate protection. Lack of further dispatches from Nicaragua was a source of anxiety.

Prompted by an order sending infantry to Nicaragua, later revoked, the revolutionary junta here sought to open negotiations with the state department with the object of ending hostilities. Angel Ugarte, of the junta, sought an interview with William T. S. Doyle, chief of the division of Latin American affairs in the department, to submit a proposition for the withdrawal of American troops and the submission of the issues of the revolution to an election. Mr. Doyle declined to receive Ugarte officially, and advised him to submit his proposals through Senator Castañeda, the Nicaraguan minister.

A general Central American outbreak as a result of the Nicaraguan situation entered into the fear of the department tonight. A belated dispatch from Minister Weitzel refers to a "coup d'état" of the late Zelayan regime from Honduras into Nicaragua. This was taken by the department to presage a widening of revolutionary operations, which might become general in Central America.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT TAFT'S TRAIN, Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 28.—President Taft tonight rescinded his 12-hour-old order directing the immediate dispatch from Panama to Nicaragua of the Tenth infantry. From his private car in the Rochester yards the president wired to the acting secretary of war to recall the order. A sufficient force of marines, the president said tonight, would be in Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, and Corinto, its principal seaport, early next week to insure the safety of American lives and property.

The president's action tonight came at the close of a day spent largely in reading telegrams from state, war and navy department heads in Washington. The president expressed tonight to friends on his car the belief that there would be more than 2,000 United States marines on Nicaragua soil by Tuesday.

Insurgents Promise to Open Lines.
A long telegram tonight from the commander of the United States gunboat in Nicaraguan waters said the insurgent leaders had given assurances that they would open the lines of communication from Corinto to Managua. The Nicaraguan government asked for assurance from the United States and stands ready to aid in opening the railway line to the coast from the capital.

The president did not conceal his anxiety tonight over conditions in Central America. In Managua and Corinto and other towns the situation is not especially dangerous to Americans, but in other parts of the country, pillaging of all sorts has been going on. The people of Nicaragua, the president was informed, are suffering untold horrors, and Americans are suffering. In many instances, with them.

U. S. Marines Enter Leon.

CORINTO, Nicaragua, Aug. 28.—Commander Warren J. Terhune and a force of 200 American sailors and marines from the gunboat Annapolis and the collier Justus today forced their way through territory controlled by the revolutionists to Leon, the town midway between the Pacific coast and Lake Managua, where the Liberals rose in arms on August 19 and in the night massacred the sleeping soldiers of the garrison.

The Americans found the Liberals hostile to their advance, and it became necessary for Commander Terhune to threaten to attack Leon before the insurgents would allow the train bearing his detachment to enter the town. Rioting had subsided and the Americans found the city resuming its normal appearance.

After conferring with the Liberal leaders, Commander Terhune withdrew his force from the city, 100 marines going to Managua and the rest of the detachment to Corinto.

Corinto has been designated as a place of refuge for the foreigners residing in the surrounding country. An armed force from the gunboat Annapolis is constantly patrolling the streets, and six-pound guns have been taken from the warship and mounted on flat-tops for the defense of the city.

The United States gunboat Denver, with reinforcements of marines and blue-jackets numbering 350, has arrived here. The cruiser California, with a further detachment of marines, is expected here tomorrow.

The revolutionaries control Chinandega, a city of 12,000, and the capital of a department of the same name, and it is the desire of the rebels to capture Corinto, which is Chinandega's port.

All attempts of the insurgents to capture this seaport so far have been prevented by the armed force from the Annapolis.

Managua is the only large city in the northern department with the exception of Corinto remaining under the control of the government forces.

Lumbermen Were Kept Advised as to Standing of the Retail Dealers

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 28.—Evidence purporting to show how lumber manufacturers and wholesalers were kept informed as to what retailers in the middle west were considered "unethical" and what firms were supplying them with lumber was introduced at today's hearing of the government's antitrust suit against the Northwestern Lumbermen's association. F. D. Becker of Seattle, secretary of the Pacific Coast Shippers association, identified on the witness stand much correspondence that passed between him and Willard G. Hollis of Minneapolis, secretary of the Northwestern Lumbermen's association, and A. L. Porter of Spokane, secretary of the Western Retail Lumbermen's association.

Shippers on the coast, it was brought out, were regularly advised by Mr. Becker through circulars of the standing of retailers in the middle west. Copies of these circulars were introduced as evidence and were identified by Mr. Becker.

At the morning session M. Bliss told how the Western Washington Lumber company lost its business and went into the hands of a receiver after it became known that the company had sold a car of lumber to a consumer at Omwaka, Ia.

Americans in Mexico Will Be Killed After September 15 If Madero Does Not Resign, Is the Threat of Rebels

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 28.—Americans will be killed by rebels after September 15 is the declaration brought here from Col. Emilio P. Campa, a leader of Orozco's rebel army, who with 800 men is operating along the Southern Pacific of Mexico below Nogales, Ariz. The word is brought here by various Americans who declare they received it directly from Campa. An only alternative given by the rebel leader is the resignation of President Madero.

Based on this report received from Thomas Holland, an ex-Arizona ranger and United States customs officer, American Consul Dye of Agua Prieta, Mex., today wired the state department at Washington that Campa declares the state of Sonora will be devastated unless the Mexican president resigns.

Three hundred rebels are reported marching on the El Tigre mining camp, about 60 miles southeast of here, and a fight is expected. The American property is defended by about 100 men, many of them Americans.

TAFT LEADER IN KANSAS SUBMITS NEW PROPOSITION

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 28.—J. N. Dolley, chairman of the state Republican committee, issued a statement today offering the Taft men a chance to get the Taft presidential electors on the ballot in an independent column. His plan is to name eight electors and two Roosevelt electors by petition and place them in the independent column. Eight Roosevelt and two Taft electors were chosen in the recent Republican primary and will go on the Republican ticket this fall. Chairman Dolley's plan completes the list so that each side will have 10 electors on the ballot and puts the matter up to the voters for decision.

WILSON WILL DISCUSS POLITICAL POLICIES

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 28.—Application of the tariff policies of the three political parties to the farmers will be the subject Governor Woodrow Wilson will discuss tomorrow at the state grangers' picnic at Williams Grove, Pa.

The governor today distributed advance copies of a portion of his speech which he dictated to a stenographer. As he glanced over it today the result did not satisfy him.

"You will see by reading this speech that I cannot prepare one in advance," said the governor. "I have got to have an audience and the warmth that comes as I go along with my speech. I can't take a helpless stenographer and talk to him. It is like cruelty to animals."

Louis D. Brandeis of Boston had luncheon with the governor. Mr. Brandeis recently announced his support of Governor Wilson.

The governor will leave here late today for Philadelphia, spending the night there and continuing early tomorrow to Harrisburg, from which place he will motor to Williams Grove.

U. S. SENATOR TO RETIRE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—George C. Perkins, United States senator from California, announced on his return from Washington today his intention to retire from political life. Failing health and the infirmities due to age were given as the reason for this decision. Senator Perkins' term will expire March 4, 1915. He was appointed once and has been elected four times to the senate. The announcement of his intention to retire is made at this time because 21 state senators to be elected in November will have a voice in naming of his successor at the expiration of his term.

NEED 20,000 TROOPS FOR PROPER CONTROL

At Present There Are Less Than 1,500 Soldiers on Mexican Line

EL PASO, TEX., Aug. 28.—Gen. E. Z. Steever, commanding the department of Texas, said tonight that he had not yet received the message from General Wood, asking if more troops were needed to patrol the Mexican border. In view of recent activities of rebels, General Steever's answer to such a question is not announced.

It is believed that 20,000 troops would be needed to form an efficient border patrol, both to prevent immigration smuggling to the Mexican rebels and to guard against recurrence of such raiding by rebels who have crossed the Texas and New Mexico borders on recent instances.

At present there are less than 1,500 troops on border patrol. A large portion of that number is infantry, of which less use than cavalry for police duty in the southwest. This, it is estimated, makes one man to a mile of border, to say nothing of the necessary night and day shifts.

General Steever tomorrow morning will cross the international boundary here and visit Juarez, Mexico, opposite El Paso. He will go to return a call paid him today at Fort Bliss, Tex., by Gen. Joaquin Teller, commander of Mexican federal troops operating south of the border at this point.

The Mexican troops are doing no border patrol duty, their attention being required in an attempt to keep open the railways running south and southwest of Juarez, which are continually cut by rebels.

ARMY OFFICER IS ORDERED TO BORDER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Gen. Walter S. Schuyler, commanding the department of California, was directed today by General Wood to proceed immediately to the southern end of his department and take personal charge of the disposition of the troops there. Increased activity of rebel bands on the border as the result of the breaking up of the main army of Orozco is creating a grave situation on the American side of the line, it is said. General Wood, chief of staff, today wired General Steever at Fort Bliss, asking whether he wished further reinforcements for the border patrol. The war department, he has taken steps to send troops from the Pacific division within a few hours after receiving a request from General Steever.

MINNESOTA AUTHORITIES DEMAND WOMAN'S RETURN

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—The authorities of the state of Minnesota submitted today to the governor of California requisition papers for his approval, demanding the right to return Sarah Reed Akley, now in Los Angeles, to that state on a charge of grand larceny.

The governor's executive secretary notified Sarah R. Akley of the arrival of the requisition and gave her the opportunity of a hearing if she so desired. The requisition papers set forth that Mrs. Akley stole $120,000 worth of bonds.

INVESTIGATION MAY HAVE CAUSED SUICIDE

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—Interest in the investigation of an alleged conspiracy by mill officials to secrete dynamite in Lawrence during the general strike there last winter centered today in the report of the Suffolk county grand jury which is expected within a short time.

District Attorney Pollitt today questioned a number of mill officials. Opinions differ as to whether the investigation influenced Ernest W. Pittman of Andover, a contractor, to commit suicide yesterday.

Pittman erected two of the largest mills in Lawrence and was questioned recently by Mr. Pollitt regarding any knowledge he might have had of the distribution of dynamite in that city.

The investigation by the grand jury was based on allegations that dynamite was purchased in or near Boston and sent to Lawrence for distribution in certain places. It has been also alleged that an attempt was made to lead the public to believe that the explosive was to be used by the strikers to damage mill property and thus cast odium on the unions.

MONTANA DEMOCRATS IN CONVENTION TODAY

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Aug. 28.—The Democratic state convention will meet here tomorrow morning with 650 delegates in attendance. For the nomination for governor the race appears close between Sam R. Steward of Virginia City and W. B. George of Billings. The state central committee named Governor Norris tonight as temporary chairman of the convention.

HAIL DESTROYS FRUIT

LOGAN, Utah, Aug. 28.—Huge hail stones driven by a heavy wind swept fields and orchards for 30 miles last evening stripping orchards, razing grain and clearing sweet beet fields. The loss to agriculturists and fruit growers has been enormous. The path of the storm was five miles wide.

vation Army Founder

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Funeral services for the founder of the Salvation Army, Gen. William Booth, were held at the Olympia tonight. In accordance with the traditions of the organization, they were without pomp or symbols of mourning, but were carried out with moving fervor and impressiveness. Thirty-four thousand persons participated.

The body of the late general, in a plain pine coffin, rested high upon a white catafalque in front of the big platform across the end of the hall, where all the chief officers of the organization were seated, and where 40 hands of music were massed. The crimson flag of the army of fire and blood, which the general unfurled on Mount Calvary, was planted above the coffin. A bank of flowers, composed of the tributes sent by royalty and many societies, were behind it. The front row of chairs before the coffin were filled with representatives of various bodies, and also the equerry for the king, several mayors in their robes and chains of office, a delegation from the stock exchange, clergymen of all the Protestant churches, and Jewish rabbis.

Rise As Body Is Brought In.

But the rank and file of the great gathering, was composed of the plain people, for whom the army works and of whom it is composed.

The most solemn moments of the long meeting were when the coffin was borne along the center of the hall to the sonorous music of the "Dead March in Saul." A small procession, representing many branches of the army's activity, carrying the flags of their respective countries, preceded it. When the bands began with the revival hymn, "The Better World," the voices took up the strain. Then everyone bowed in silent prayer.

The hands broke into the "Dead March" at the conclusion of the prayer, and the thousands rose and turned toward the far entrance, where appeared a cluster of white-tipped flags. Amid reverent silence, the catafalque was wheeled along the aisle to a position in front of the platform, where its escort broke to the right and left and mounted the steps. Bramwell Booth immediately reached his chair, where he fell to his knees and buried his face in his hands.

Turned Into Great Revival.

Commissioner Lawley, the late general's right-hand man, made a brief extemporaneous prayer, and this was followed by the hymn, "Pass Me Not, O Loving Saviour." Commissioner Adelaide Cox offered prayer and with a great murmur of voices, everyone repeated the Lord's prayer.

The congregation then read silently from books several extracts of the late general's writings, the reading being interspersed by hymns, one sung by children and another by all the women in the hall.

Dens of persons forced their way through the crowded aisle to the "mercy seats," where they knelt in prayer. In some cases the police were required to force a way for the penitents.

The meeting was turned into a colossal revival.

Striding back and forth on the platform, Gen. Bramwell Booth, wearing his hat above his head, the singing, pausing frequently to remind sinners that the dead leader had given his life to saving them.

The most impressive feature of the service then followed. All the soldiers of the army rose and recited the covenant of fidelity, pledging themselves to be faithful soldiers of the Lord.

BAR ASSOCIATION FOR MODEL MARRIAGE LAW

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 28.—Severe criticism of those who question the adequacy of the federal constitution and of "those who seek to replace it with policies dictated by passing whims and fleeting emotions" was made by United States Senator Sutherland of Utah, in an address before the American Bar association tonight.

Maintaining that the chief value of the constitution "is in its operation to prevent ill-considered and impulsive action," Senator Sutherland denounced the plan for recall of judicial decisions, which he said in effect would be "to render a judicial decision by a show of hands at the polls."

"It is becoming unfashionable to speak well of the constitution," declared Senator Sutherland. "The good faith of the people themselves in seeking these radical changes is not to be questioned, but we may justly doubt their wisdom in having taken so ready a road to the professional demagogue whose strident voice has filled the land with his ill-considered and impracticable theories."

A motion to urge President Taft and congress to increase the salaries of federal judges provoked heated debate. The motion was tabled. A committee was appointed to ask congress to empower the supreme court to prepare and put into effect a complete correlated system of pleading and procedure for the common law side of the federal courts as is now being done for the equity side.

The purpose is to secure a uniform system of pleading for state and federal courts.

The bar association tonight approved a model marriage law.

Walter George Smith of Philadelphia, who was presented the model from a committee declared the law would discuss common law marriages.

CANDIDATE OF MACHINE NOT IN FIGHT

Present Struggle Is Between Progressives and Demos, Says Gov. Johnson

QUARTER CENTURY ADVANCE

That Is What Coming Campaign Will Do in 60 Days,
His Prediction

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 28.—"In 60 days we will have educated the people of the United States a quarter of a century in advance of where they have been before," asserted Gov. Hiram W. Johnson of California, in his first public address since he left his own state on a crusade in behalf of the Progressive party and his own candidacy for the vice presidency of the United States.

His appearance in Utah was anticipated with deep interest by political leaders, Progressive and conservative, because, as Governor Johnson himself expressed it, Utah has been regarded in the east as blindly devoted to the Republican party as was Maryland to the Whig party when that organization was dismembered.

Nothing But Good Can Result.

"Utah will give the same answer to the call of humanity that will be given by the neighboring states and by our own state on the Pacific coast. I have been accused of saying we can't win in this fight; that it matters little whether we win at all this year. In 60 days we will have educated the people a quarter of a century in advance of where they have been before and only good can come to every man, woman and child from this fight. We are going to do some good in the world, and that is all that man can do in the little time he is on this earth."

"Full blown and full grown has this party come into its own. The fight is already won in this nation for humanity and human rights."

Fight Between Roosevelt and Wilson.

His metaphor was suggested by the sudden blossoming into red and white of the great audience when the orchestra struck up a patriotic air. In an instant a thousand bandanas flashed from as many pockets, as if by magic and glittered over the pit and first gallery of the theater.

Governor Johnson described from his viewpoint the two national conventions in Chicago, but gave only passing mention to the Republican nominee. He titled, he said, "anyone so benighted as to labor under the delusion that the so-called candidate of the June convention in Chicago is a candidate for president of these United States."

Compare the confession of faith of our candidate, he said, "with the address of acceptance of the Democratic candidate, read what both of these candidates have said in this campaign, because the struggle is between them and them alone."

Governor Johnson will resume his journey toward Denver and the east tomorrow morning. He plans to speak at Rock Springs, Wyo., tomorrow afternoon and at Cheyenne in the evening.

BOY SHOTS BROTHER

BOULDER, Colo., Aug. 28.—George Berg, aged 11, son of F. A. Berg, was accidentally shot through the right thigh this morning by his brother, Albert, aged 14. They were playing with a revolver. X-ray photographs have been taken to locate the bullet and doctors do not think the wound is serious unless blood poisoning sets in.

BABY FALLS THREE FLOORS BUT ESCAPES WITH BRUISE

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 28.—Harold Goodman, 3 years old, fell from a third story window at his home today and struck on his head on the lawn. With the exception of a bad bruise the injury seemed none the worse for the experience.

TRAFFIC OF THE AIR REGULATIONS SIGNED

By GEORGE DUFRESNE.
PARIS, Aug. 29.—The prefect of police has signed an order fixing the conditions in which the ministerial decree of 1911 concerning the traffic of the air is to be applied. The text is as follows:

Article 1.—Pilots of aeroplanes are forbidden to land within the limits of the city of Paris. They are also forbidden to land in the communes of the department of the Seine at less than 500 meters from the nearest buildings, except in the case of aerodromes authorized by the administration, and at certain fixed hours.

Article 2.—Flying machines are forbidden to fly over Paris and the communes of the department of the Seine, except at a height which will enable them, should their motor stop, to descend by a volplane and come to ground outside the city. In the case of a descent within prohibited areas, the pilot must not depart without obtaining official authorization.

Article 3.—Enumerates the officials who are charged with the duty of enforcing these regulations, each in his own province.

The new regulation is timely. I have seen aeroplanes flying over crowded boulevards, and wondered how many hundred people could be killed if the machine came down.

Red Sox Have Class But Few Trimmings

If the Boston Red Sox win the American League pennant, as now seems probable, it will be a victory of a steady, beautifully balanced, practical baseball machine—a machine that has few fancy trimmings in the way of stars, no startling new lines of offense or defense, and no vast amount of color—but which is a great organization take it by and large.

It is a machine that early in the season impressed observers with that indefinable something—which is as definite in ball clubs as in individuals—known as "class." It was generally conceded throughout the baseball world that the Red Sox had a chance to beat the Athletics for the championship, although few really expected them to do it. The belief was general that the Mack aggregation was a shade stronger than the Stahl collection, but it was also generally predicted that the Bostonians would be the runners up.

The position of the Sox is due to no flashy run at any stage of the race. It is due to a steady, interminable grind; they got away well up, and they have remained there. They had the ball players which, after all, count heavily.

It is a team that is "due." It has been gradually rounding into championship form for several years. Jim McAlleer, the new president of the club, does not believe the change in management had any effect—that the Sox would be out in front if the old regime had remained—but the fans are not likely to coincide with the view, except in so far as the team leader is concerned. If other managers had had the same support, being accorded, Jake Stahl, the club, as now constituted, would probably be right where it is at present, but not until the general management changed was that support forthcoming.

It is not a young club. It is not an old club. It is about half and half. The Giants meet the Sox in the big series, they will have no great advantage over their Boston rivals in point of experience. True, the Giants have played in a world's series, but even at that a majority of the Sox have been campaigning longer than most of McGraw's men. Fellows like Tris Speaker, Joe Wood, Carriegan, Stahl, Gardner, Hall and Wagner are no coddle kids in baseball.

Many of the present members of the Sox served through that post-season series with the Giants a few years back. That series is regarded now as a joke, and is not seriously considered in test of strength between the teams in any respect, but just the same it will not do the Sox any harm to have had the benefit of that experience if they meet the big town boys for the world's title.

Jake Stahl is well known in New York, and is well liked here. He was a member of the Yanks in 1908, playing the left field for a team that eventually finished a bad last. Meanwhile, Stahl went back to Boston, where he staffed his big league career, although Cleveland complained at the time that it had been promised Stahl in a trade for Hinchman or Stovall.

Stahl was born in Elkhart, Ind., April 13, 1880, which makes him about the youngest of the big league leaders. He was a great football player at the University of Illinois, and the famous coach and scout, George Halas, he has played at Boston, Washington and New York, managing the Senators in 1906, during which time they made the sensational sport that brought him the title of the "Born Leader."

Stahl did not make the Red Sox; he had no part in assembling, or even in welding together, the machine as it now stands—he is essentially the driver of a perfected team—but he must be given all credit for the skillful manner in which he has performed his duty.

The ball players now under Stahl's control were picked up by the men who preceded him. The team was there, and it seems reasonable to presume that it would have threatened to win the American League pennant with any manager of ordinary judgment at the helm—and yet Jake Stahl is the man who is turning the threat into a certainty, and to Jake Stahl must be given proper acclaim.

In compiling an all-star club, picked from the members of the two major leagues, a majority of experts and fans would probably include just two members of the Boston Red Sox. They are Tris Speaker, outfielder, and Joe Wood, pitcher. There are half a dozen players in each department of the game who would likely be selected over any other members of the Sox for the respective positions. In Speaker and Wood, however, the Sox have two men who could hardly be omitted from any unbiased all-star pick.

GET RID OF RHEUMATISM

Rubbing with liniments, blistering the affected parts, plasters, etc., are usually helpful in relieving the pains and aches of Rheumatism, but such treatment does not get rid of the disease, because it does not reach its source. Rheumatism comes from an excess of uric acid in the blood. This acid circulating through the system acts as an irritant to the nerves, muscles and joints, and produces the inflammation and swelling, and sharp cutting pains characteristic of the trouble. Then Rheumatism becomes chronic and not only a painful but a dangerous disease. S. S. S., the greatest vegetable remedy, goes into the circulation, neutralizes and removes the uric acid, and by building up the thin, sour blood, safely and surely cures the disease. S. S. S. makes rich, nourishing blood, which quiets excited nerves, eases the painful muscles and joints and filters out every particle of irritating uric acid from the system. It was decided last night that, owing to the limited space at Washburn field, only a certain number of automobiles will be permitted on the grounds during the game, and reservations for space may be made at Bursy Corner drug store, where the advance sale of tickets will be handled also.

For strenuous, exciting and thrilling sport, auto polo is in a class by itself, and, although a new game, will doubtless become immensely popular.

If Moreau should win over Klaus it would change his plans for a time, as he would have to remain and meet Carpenter, and that is his aim, should he win. Design for Blouse in Eyelet Embroidery

MISS NORRIS'

ANSWERS TO

CORRESPONDENTS

ELEANOR NORRIS

The blouse given to-day was designed with a collarless neck, which may either be buttonholed or finished with a lace edge, and the circle of eyelets around the neck will add very much to the attractiveness of the design and look well with either the buttonholed edge or a narrow lace finish.

A gage stiletto, with which the exact size of the eyelets can be marked, is best to use, so that all the eyelets will be of a uniform size, as this adds to the beauty of the finished work.

The little flowers and leaves should be worked in raised satin stitch, and the stems done in French stem stitch. The solid embroidery will, by way of contrast, display the eyelet work and give a very beautiful effect when the blouse is finished.

For cooler days, a slip of chiffon, matching the coat suit, can be worn over this blouse, and the embroidery showing through the chiffon would make a very pretty waist, indeed.

Handkerchief linen, batiste or mull would be the best material to use for eyelet embroidery.

Pillow Tops

WHETHER the making of a pillow top for porch, living room, library or sleeping chamber interests the latest of Summertime loungers, for the work goes so rapidly that it is convincing proof to the busy people about her that she is accomplishing something. Besides, all pillow tops to make is the one developed from a badanna handkerchief of India printed linen, as this need only be backed by a plain colored linen and its two open edges blind-stitched. A trifle more elaborate are the cotton chintzes printed in toile de Jouy, old Japanese brocade, with metallic mixtures, and colorings, and in de't patterns. These may be edged with coarse lace, and backed with a dark shade of the dominant color of the printed fabric, and at the open ends there should be rows of buttons and buttonholes.

German tapestry canvas in gray or ecru makes a good foundation for the pillow top to be done in a long cross stitch with colored cottons. On the plain gray and tan linens may be worked artistic designs showing conventionalized roses, done with light-weight chenille thread in shades of golden brown, rich green, old rose and gold. Another attractive design and one that goes quickly if a long, heavy needle is used, is a conventional berry done in shades of tan and blue. A third design is a wistaria scheme, which is prettiest when carried out with Delft blue shades on cream linen.

White dotted Swiss, edged with a white or a colored hemstitching, makes a pretty pillow top for the bedroom, and another charming lingerie pillow top is of fllet bands entire deux, with round thread Cluny and edged with the same lace. It may be mounted over a slip of white or any color, according with the draperies and decorations of the sleeping chamber. Daintiest of all pillow tops, however, and practical, too, since they launder perfectly, are those composed of panels, squares and oblongs, triangles and megalions of old Flanders. Venice or Cluny lace imposed upon sheer batiste to form a regular design, including corners and definite center-piece. When these lace pieces have been applied firmly on the foundation and the batiste cut away from underneath, the pillow top will be almost wholly of meshing.

SCARFS AND CENTERPIECES

Most of all substantial for hand usage in the living room are the sideboard scarfs and table centerpieces of gray linen embroidered with holly, green, old blue or dull red in a fine cross stitch and scallop embroidered at the edges with the same shade. Also of gray as well as of creamy hue, are the linen triangles, squares and oblongs embroidered with eyeletting and joined with narrow strips of plain linen. The triangles are used for the corners of the scarf or the square center-piece, the squares for the centers and the oblongs are worked in across the four sides. Another useful type of linen scarf and center-piece is of half-bleach linen edged with Cluny headed by cluny insertion and centered with a medallion. The same idea is worked out with ecru Brussels net applique with Renaissance braid flowers and finished along the edges with a gimp. There are, too, medium weight scarfs and centerpieces of alternate stripes of cluny lace and drawn-work scrim that is edged with the lace. This latter combination is sometimes used in bandings for closet shelves where doors give into living rooms, but a more practical banding is of canvas scalloped or fringed with a color or worked with a cross stitch and edge finished with a crocheted lace.

APRONS MOTHER MAKES

Practical-minded "home" mothers are making for their own use kitchen aprons with kimono sleeves, rounded out necks and button-closing backs which are long enough to cover the entire frock and, in fact, may be worn as a dress. The aprons are made of striped seersucker or German linen printed in small white designs on a dark ground and there is nothing to equal the latter material for resisting soil and wear.

For the little daughter of five years or thereabout, mother makes a plaid apron of colored checked linen bound with white. It is large enough to cover the frock, has elbow sleeves, a Dutch neck and on torrid mornings may be put on directly over the lingerie.

"Mother" is making a bath apron for the baby. It is knitted of softest worsted and faced with heavily fleece-lined cotton which is warranted not to shrink. On it the baby lies as comfortably while being bathed as though it were in its crib.

TRIMMINGS FOR THE HAT

Don't wear a hat that is trimmed with something whose color fairly shouts imprecations at that of the frock, suit or gloves. Garnishings which may be adjusted in a moment's time, come in shades which look well with almost any tint. Of these trimmings are the bunches of roses, in dying shades—dull blues that are nearly gray, faded pinks and tawny yellows—and the deep red and yellow roses which are good with white, black, gray, mauve and various tones of blue. So blurred and faded are the colors of the Persian silk squares of handkerchief size, that they make hat scarfs which will go with a garment of almost any shade. But if you are not certain that your tone-sight is perfect, have black or white "minette" garnishings for the hat. Very simple ones are the hapsins mounted with huge maline bows in all black or all white, and a trifle more elaborate, are the white or black ostrich feather bands and the magpie fancies in marabou.

Black Forest Cross Stitch.

O. L.—Black Forest cross stitch is made in the same manner as any other cross stitch embroidery, but the designs are taken from the old pieces of embroidery found in that section of Germany and for that reason it is called Black Forest cross stitch.

The designs are very stiff and quaint and the coloring of the old patterns is following as closely as possible, often being carried out in silk floss.

These designs are in good taste with severe furnishings, but for informal surroundings, the designs which follow the modern lines are better.

Window Box.

Mrs. A. E.—A window box can be very decorative, even if made at home. Paint the box in cream enamel and stencil a side or border decoration in some simple pattern.

The stencil may take the form of a flower or vine for which the box is in-

MRS. V. D.—A tea set consisted of five pieces, a fifteen-inch dolly, which is used for the top of the tea table; a nine-inch dolly for the sandwich or cake plate; a small round dolly for the jam jar, an oval-shaped one for the spoon tray and a smaller oval dolly for the sliced lemon dish.

A plain scallop, which should be well padded before working, finishes the edge of the dollies, and the embroidery may be as simple or elaborate as one wishes, and a very pretty idea is to have the embroidery match the decoration of the tea table china.

The china designs can usually be easily applied in embroidery, but if it is impossible to have the patterns match carry out the embroidery on the dollies in the same color as the china, so that the tea table will have a harmonious appearance.

A set of tea table dollies is new and would make a very welcome gift to any home-maker and would be especially nice as a bridal gift and one not likely to be duplicated. When a set is intended for a gift, it is not always possible to match the china, either in color or design, and the all-white dollies would be best. Eyelet or cut work are lovely for a set of this kind and even a simple pattern carried out in open-work embroidery would be very attractive.

Crocheted Bag.

Miss E. L.—Directions for making a crocheted bag were published April 28, 1912. You can secure a copy of this issue from the circulation department of the paper.

Am very sorry indeed that you should have missed this copy of the paper, as the bag given was very attractive.

Sweet Pea Design.

Mrs. G.—When applying the sweet pea design as a border for pillow cases, solid embroidery would be best, as the French outlining and seedling, which is lovely for waists, would not be so effective on a pillow case.

The blossoms may be worked either in solid satin stitch or Kensington embroidery, using white mercerized cotton, or the entire edge of the blossom may be embroidered in long and short stitch, sometimes called half solid Kensington embroidery. The stems should be padded with a double thread and then worked in French stem stitch.

You could also apply this design to a dresser scarf and pin cushion, and so have an entire set of the same pattern.

For a dresser scarf, use the large sweet pea motif surrounded with dots as the motif for the center and corner of the scarf, connecting them by repeating the sprays, found at the bottom of the cuff.

tended, a narrow border of geranium leaves on a wide border of conventionalized daisies.

Tulips also make an attractive box, styled as almost any color may be used for the tulips.

Light or dark green as well as brown, may be used in place of the cream paint, and a box of light green with a darker border of stenciled geranium leaves would be very decorative. These boxes should, of course, be zinc lined.

Circular Hem.

Mrs. R.—The little platts, which are necessary when making a circular hem, can be seen in a sheer material, so it is best to dispose of the fullness by gathering the edge of the turned back hem and then evenly distribute the gathers and stitch. A circular hem, in sheer material, if made in this way, will have a very neat appearance.

If the material is very heavy, the fullness is disposed of by small platts, but the upper edge should be bound with tape, so that it will not need to be turned and thus avoid any heavy line when the hem is stitched.

New Centerpieces.

A. W.—A new and novel way to make the large centerpieces suitable for the living room or a between meal mat, is to underlay the large motifs with a contrasting color of linen, cutting away the material of the centerpieces, so as to show the colored linen underneath.

The colored linen is based directly under the portions of the design which are to show the color. The edge of the pattern is then embroidered, with an over and over stitch or buttonhole, catching the stitches through the underlay linen. After the embroidery is finished, the top linen is carefully cut away.

If the design is large, the hem may be cut away before the embroidery is done, and after the linen is cut away, turn in the edges and baste to the linen underneath, then embroider over the basting.

This method of working is unusual and decidedly effective.

Scallops.

M. S.—A scallop such as you describe has not been published within the last two years, but if you will give me some idea as the year and month in which it was published, will gladly look up the date for you.

Kensington Embroidery.

Mrs. F.—Kensington embroidery is really just raw after row of long and short stitches, each placed so that it nearly covers the previous row. The thickly laid plummage on a bird's breast is very suggestive of this embroidery.

When working, put the linen in a tight-fitting hoop or frame. A frame of standard hoop is best, as then the work can be done with both hands, putting the needle in with the right and drawing it out with the left.

Conform to the outer stitches to the shape of the flower or petal.

A needlework book can be purchased at any stage dealing in needlework supplies.

Cuff Links for Summer.

Reader—A set of cuff links, which would be lovely for Summer wear, can be made by covering pearl buttons with crocheted in white cotton. The buttons are connected with a half-inch crocheted chain.

Buttons to match the blouse may be made for the blouse, and as old pearl buttons may be used, a dainty set can be made at very slight cost.

Colored, mercerized cotton may be used in place of the white and covered wooden beads may be substituted for the pearl buttons.

Outlining.

Miss N.—When outlining round forms, it is much easier to make the outline stitches from left to right, as they will then conform to the rounded shape.

Knots should never be used in embroidery of any kind and when beginning the outlining run a few stitches to the connecting point and then enter these stitches with the outlining. After the work is finished, run the thread back a few stitches underneath the work and fasten with a buttonhole stitch.

Eyelets in Turnover Collar.

N. R.—A turn over collar should always have two tiny eyelets worked in the front edges so that it will not become torn when it is pinned.

It is impossible to pin the collar in exactly the same place each time and it soon becomes frayed and ragged looking unless the eyelets are worked in it. If pinned through the small eyelets, the collar pin will always be straight and the ends of the pin will cover the eyelets so that they cannot be seen, and the collar will be neater and wear much longer.
